Procedure(s)

---

Any individual or organization that has access to Amplifon patient data may use and disclose protected health information for purposes of treatment, payment, and health care operations activities without explicit patient consent.

1. The following uses of Protected Health Information (PHI) are appropriate and permitted under the HIPAA Privacy Standard.

- a. For Treatment: Amplifon may use its patients PHI to provide treatment or services. PHI about patients may be disclosed to providers who are involved in the care of each patient.
- b. For Payment: Amplifon may use and disclose medical information about a patients' treatment and services to bill and collect payment from patients, their insurance company or a third-party payer. Amplifon may also tell patients' health plan about treatment or services they are going to receive in order to determine whether their insurance plan will cover the treatment or services.
- c. For Health Care Operations: Amplifon may use information in patients' health records for health care operations, as defined by 45 CFR §164.501 and this policy. For example, Amplifon may use this information to assess the care and outcomes in their case and others like it. The results may then be used to continually improve the quality of care for Amplifon patients. Amplifon may disclose information to providers for educational purposes.

2. Other acceptable uses of PHI include disclosures (but are not limited to):

- a. To business associates with a current Business Associate Agreement;
- b. To remind patients that they have an appointment for medical care;
- c. To assess patient satisfaction with our services;
- d. To tell patients about possible treatment alternatives;
- e. To tell patients about health-related benefits or services;
- f. For conducting training programs or reviewing competence of health care professionals.

3. Workforce members must always use only the minimum information necessary to accomplish the intended purpose of the use, access, or disclosure, unless the disclosure is related to treatment.

4. Patient privacy will be supported through authorization, access and audit controls and should be implemented for all systems that contain identifying patient information. Within the permitted access, an individual system user must access only what they need to perform his or her job.
